

Spelman College

The Report on Philanthropy 2007 – 2008

Every Woman...Every Year!

A Message from the President

Greetings:

This publication celebrates the philanthropic spirit of our benefactors and affords me the opportunity to express my sincere thanks to our alumnae, trustees, faculty, staff, parents, students and friends for supporting Spelman College. Every gift, whether large or small, has a meaningful impact on the College, and ensures our position among the nation's foremost liberal arts and women's colleges.

A major point of pride is alumnae support. The number of alumnae donors grew to more than 4,000 contributors, or 30% of all alumnae. The number of student donors and the amount they gave to the College more than tripled. Gifts from parents increased by 50 percent. More than 46 percent of Spelman faculty and staff were also donors last year, a testament to their outstanding commitment to the College and our students.

Spelman is a privately funded college, so your gifts provide resources that help bridge the chasm that separates good colleges from truly great ones. We take enormous pride in Spelman's legacy of providing a superior educational experience for women of African descent, and remain committed to the principles of academic excellence, leadership development, service learning and social transformation. Your support helps to ensure our ability to provide scholarships, recruit the brightest students and faculty, afford technological enhancements and campus improvements, and deliver the curricular and co-curricular support necessary to educate and nurture women who are making the choice to change the world.

With a nearly 80 percent graduation rate, Spelman continues to be recognized by such rating entities as US News & World Report, Princeton Review and The Chronicle of Higher Education as one of the best liberal arts colleges in the country. Spelman students distinguish themselves as recipients of prestigious awards such as the Thomas J. Watson Foundation Fellowship, the Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarship, and the Fulbright Fellowship.

As we look to the future, we are committed to even greater achievements for Spelman and our students. We will build strategically on our distinctive mission, academic strengths, and infrastructure, knowing that private support is essential to reaching new goals. I am confident that through the generosity of our loyal donors, the College will achieve great things.

Thank you for sharing your resources with the College during the July 1, 2007 – June 30, 2008, fiscal year. Your generosity will help Spelman remain a place where young women of African descent are empowered to uplift their communities through service and leadership.

Best Wishes,

Beverly Daniel Tatum, Ph.D.
President, Spelman College

THE CAMPAIGN FOR ALUMNAE PARTICIPATION

Bernice Green, C'91

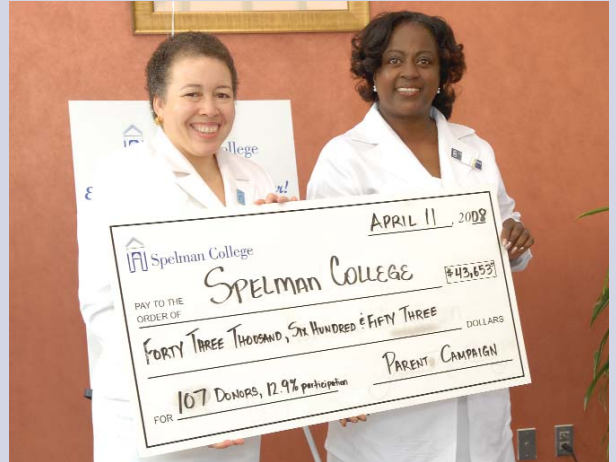

The Every Woman...Every Year campaign encourages every Spelman alumna to make a gift to the College each and every fiscal year. Alumnae are rallying to the charge to increase giving participation and strengthen the College through their collective contributions.

Founders Day Challenge

As part of the Every Woman...Every Year campaign, alumnae, faculty, staff, parents and students were encouraged to support the College financially and present those gifts to Spelman on Founders Day. During the College's 127th Birthday Party, each group presented a check to President Beverly Daniel Tatum signifying the number of donors and their total contribution to the College.

Reunion Classes Contribute More Than $600,000

Reunion is a time to rejoice in the gathering of generations of Spelman women from the Diamond Daughters to the Golden Girls and the first-time, 5-year reunion class. Culminating a week of activities, the Reunion Banquet, held at the Georgia World Congress Center, included the class gift presentations and the announcement of the winners of the Alumnae Philanthropic Achievement Awards.

Dr. Tatum presents a bouquet of roses to Helen Brookins Bell, C'53, in recognition of the Outstanding Cumulative Giving (4-year total) recognition awarded to the Class of 1953 for their gift of $81,970.

Spelman Honors Consistent Contributors

Reunioning alumnae who have been consistent donors were also recognized at this year's Reunion Banquet. There were 103 members of reunion classes that have answered the call for consistent giving and have made a gift each year since their last reunion. Those alumnae received linen and lace embroidered handkerchiefs as a token of appreciation from the College. Three alumnae were individually acknowledged for contributing to their alma mater each year since 1973. For 35 years of consistent giving, Ms. Bettie J. Durrah, C'63, Dr. Pauline E. Drake, C'58, and accepting for Ruth Harvey Brown, C'53, Mrs. Jean LaRue Foster Scott, C'53, (pictured with Dr. Tatum from left to right) were each presented with a silver, engraved jewelry box.

Scholarship Recipients Say Thank You

On Friday, April 4, 2008, Dr. Beverly Daniel Tatum hosted the annual Scholarship Appreciation Luncheon, which honors the generosity of scholarship donors and provides an opportunity for supporters and the grateful recipients to meet. During the luncheon, students and sponsors had the opportunity to develop meaningful relationships. “The expression of appreciation from the College and the heartfelt thanks from grateful students who tell of their financial need and academic achievements encourages continued support,” says Marsha Allen, director of donor relations.

During her luncheon address, Sierra Bloxson, C’2008, spoke of how need-based aid, grants and scholarships shaped and influenced not only her college career, but also her life. “Spelman College is where my life has begun,” said the Cleveland, Ohio native, who had to support herself while attending Spelman. “Society said that I was not supposed to make it out of my family situation, that I was not supposed to make it out of my neighborhood and that I was not supposed to graduate from college. Because of the generosity of donors like you and the grace of God, I am still here and I am graduating on this spring. Know that your giving can and does make a difference in the lives of women like me, who otherwise would not have the opportunity to obtain a degree from an institution such as Spelman.”

College Community Reaches 46% Participation in Campus Campaign

GRACIE HUTCHERSON, C'82, WAS THRILLED

when she received the phone call asking her to be a Team Lead for the Spelman College 2008 Campus Campaign. A 26-year employee of the College and director of The Marian Wright Edelman Center, Spelman's nursery-kindergarten school, Ms. Hutcherson was an obvious choice. "I love Spelman and all that it stands for," she explains passionately. "I feel like it's a part of me. Every little piece that I give and every connection that I make makes this school even better than what we currently have."

That's just the kind of enthusiasm that made this year's Campus Campaign the most successful in Spelman's history. The Campus Campaign is the College's annual fund-raising effort in which faculty and staff have the opportunity to support financially the mission of Spelman College. Gifts from faculty and staff members strengthen areas of need throughout the College, provide scholarship funding for students, and enhance and expand academic programs. This year nearly 300 employees contributed $31,000 resulting in 46 percent campus participation.

With a mission to solicit gifts from her colleagues in Laura Spelman Hall, Ms. Hutcherson quickly completed her list and went back for more. "We all have something to give no matter how small," she pitched. "Every dime counts."

Taking on a leadership role in the campaign motivated her to give more than her annual contribution. Inspiring the best from herself and her staff, she challenged others to give as much as they could, and then matched the highest gift. "Whatever it was, I was going to go over it," says Ms. Hutcherson.

With a nod to the power of collective gifts, Ms. Hutcherson hopes those from the Campus Campaign will help propel Spelman into a new era and an even greater position in the world of excellence and education. "The world has advanced technologically and scientifically. With my contribution and others like it, Spelman College can further this advancement through the hiring of experts in these fields," she says. "Spelman women will be able to excel in these areas affecting more change in the community and the world at large. We will change the world. It is my choice to help make this change in every way possible."

"We all have something to give no matter how small. Every dime counts."

Robert D. Flanigan Scholar Jamila McGill, C'2010, Moves Forward by Reaching Back

ATLANTA NATIVE JAMILA MCGILL, C'2010, says she never saw herself attending Spelman College because her single parent household couldn't afford the costs. "One of my mentors actually encouraged me to apply to Spelman, and I got accepted but I still didn't think about going because there still was the financial need. In April," she explains, "I got a call from the financial aid department saying that I received a full scholarship. It was truly a blessing."

Now Ms. McGill, a recipient of the Robert D. Flanigan Endowed Scholarship, is the junior class president and boasts a 3.75 grade point average. The scholarship was created from a series of gifts totaling $7 million for need-based scholarship support announced at the College's 125th Anniversary Signature Event on April 10, 2006.

Trustee Ted Aronson and his wife, Barbara, made a gift of $5 million to establish the Robert D. Flanigan Jr. and Jonathan L. Smith Endowed Scholarship. Inspired by their gift, other friends and colleagues also made generous gifts. Ten scholarships a year are targeted for admitted students with financial need from Atlanta, with preference given to those graduating from Atlanta Public Schools. Atlanta scholarship recipients are recognized as Robert Daniel Flanigan Scholars in honor of Spelman College's vice president for business and financial affairs and chief financial officer, who has served the institution for more than 30 years. The remaining scholarship recipients are recognized as the Johnathan L. Smith Scholars in honor of Mr. Smith's longstanding service as a trustee and chair of the Spelman College Investment Committee.

"I love Spelman wholeheartedly," says Ms. McGill, appreciative of the opportunity afforded to her. "I consider Spelman to be like a safe haven. From the first time I came in, everyone was extremely intelligent and everyone wanted a high GPA. Everyone wanted a scholarship or an internship, and everyone was striving to be at their best at all times. That was very empowering. It allowed me to really find myself and be comfortable with who I am."

Now that she is able to focus on her personal goals, Ms. McGill has taken it upon herself to go back to her high school, Atlanta's Frederick Douglass, and implement what she says is her choice to change the world. "Since I've been given the opportunity to excel, I have to go back to my high school and make people aware of the opportunities that are available to them if only they strive to put themselves in a position to receive them."

She's returned to her high school annually since freshman year, and she requests to speak to the at-risk students. "A lot of the time the kids who aren't doing as well are overlooked and people kind of give up on them," she says. "I just talk to them about the beauty of college ... making them feel that it's not as intimidating as people picture it to be. I try to establish some sort of comfort level where they don't feel like going to college is such a farfetched idea."

One of the students she reached back to pull up, Brittany Stoudemire, is now a member of the class of 2012 at Spelman College.

"I got a call from the financial aid department saying that I received a full scholarship. It was truly a blessing."

The Philanthropic Spirit of Alice Gaston Combs, C'53, Allows Her to Give in Every Way

WHEN ALICE GASTON COMBS, C'53, received word from a friend that a bright young Spelman student might have to forfeit her spot in the Class of 2010 because of financial difficulties, she quickly responded. After reading a heartfelt letter written by Destiny Norman about her family, her financial struggles and her academic aspirations, Mrs. Combs contacted the College and decided to pay Ms. Norman's outstanding balance so she could start the year off with a clean slate.

That's just one of many generous acts that is an example of Alice Combs' philanthropic spirit. In addition to her annual contributions to the College, this year Mrs. Combs and her husband, Dr. Julius V. Combs, established a $57,000 scholarship in the biology department in honor of her 55th class reunion. The funds came from the disbursement of a trust held by the Combs. Passionate about giving, Mrs. Combs says helping the student and setting up a scholarship were special gifts that she was happy to make. "I contribute every year to the College because I think that you have to give back." Excited about the Every Woman...Every Year campaign, she says it's wonderful to support your alma mater no matter how much you give. "It's nice for it to be sizeable but if you contribute, it means that there is something about your college that has remained on your mind and as an alumna I have to support it."

A retired physical therapist, Mrs. Combs has incorporated giving as a way of life. "It's important to both of us; my husband and I are in great agreement on this. People who have done well and become financially secure [need] to remember that there are lots of individuals who would like to climb the ladder but don't have the resources. So giving back is just a part of our life. It's ingrained in us now that we are able to help people and we will."

Mrs. Combs says Spelman and Wayne State University, her husband's alma mater, have always been in their will. But Dr. and Mrs. Combs decided they wanted to immediately support young women at Spelman by establishing a scholarship. Mrs. Combs says that the Office of Gift Planning worked with her to make the process of setting up the scholarship very easy. "I wanted it designated to be used in the biology department and Spelman set it all up."

Mrs. Combs, a proud mother and grandmother, urges others to be equally as generous. "If you have more to share than with your own children I think it's a wonderful thing to do. We've etched out their inheritance and talked it over with the children. I hope that we have instilled in them the idea of sharing what you have with people [who] are less fortunate."

"I would think that all of my sisters recognize that they are at a great advantage because of the great liberal arts education we got at Spelman," says Mrs. Combs. "The only way to continue that education to the number of people we would like is to support it in any way you can, in any amount. If you're able to give more, do. If not, just give what you can. Everybody can give something."

"Giving back is just a part of our life. It's ingrained in us now that we are able to help people and we will."

Rick Mills' Strong Relationships Build Lasting Commitments to Spelman

ON JUNE 21, 2008, SPELMAN COLLEGE commemorated and celebrated the establishment of the Rick J. Mills and Anna L. Mills Endowment for Global Scholarship and Authentic Leadership. Funded through a gift of $50,000 from Cummins Inc. honoring the retirement of Mr. Mills after 37 years at the corporation, the scholarship endowment supports the education of women of African ancestry who pursue study-abroad opportunities and express true leadership through campus and community involvement while attending Spelman College.

An education advocate and strong supporter of Spelman, Mr. Mills couldn't be more pleased about this honor. "My daughter went to Spelman and so I had this connection," explains Mr. Mills whose daughter, Cristen, graduated in 2005. "I also recruited from Spelman on behalf of Cummins ... and I was a sponsor for the school, so [Cummins] knew I had a passion about it."

His passion led to a fruitful and long-standing relationship between himself, Spelman and Cummins Inc. "I knew there were students at Spelman who did not have the financial means. I wanted to help make sure that students who have financial challenges and wanted to go to school have the opportunity. And when Katrina hit, Cummins gave me the opportunity to donate some money to the school to help some of those students who were affected by Katrina."

Impressed with Spelman's environment and the fact that the young women attended the College because they didn't want to be anywhere else, Mr. Mills recalls speaking with a student on campus who didn't have any housing at the time. "I said, 'Well, if you can't get housing why don't you think about going somewhere else?' And she looked at me like I was crazy. It was out of the question," he says. "So I said to myself, this might not be a bad place for Cristen, given that the students feel so strongly about it. I have to admit Spelman women are special because of the connection they have with the institution. It's pretty inspiring."

Mr. Mills has also been inspired by the College's leadership. "The thing I like about the Spelman administration is they always steered me to things that were meaningful and had substance," he says. "They never just took money for taking it; there was a purpose in it that I could appreciate."

"I never expect anything personally in return for giving," continues Mr. Mills, who plans to involve his daughter in the scholarship to ensure her connection to the College and instill the importance of giving. "I've been blessed and given so much in my life and to me it's just a natural thing to do."

"Spelman women are special because of the connection they have with the institution. It's pretty inspiring."

“Starfish Initiative” Connects One Donor’s Gift to One Student’s Needs

LA-KEYA J. WILLIAMS TRIED TO APPLY FOR LOANS WITH numerous banks, but getting a significant portion of the $32,000 she needed for her last year at Spelman was seemingly out of her reach. Thanks to an anonymous contribution to the College’s new Starfish Initiative, the psychology major, who is minoring in child development, will be able to complete her Spelman experience.

La-Keya J. Williams, C'2010

Spelman is employing creative solutions to assist the significant number of students who require financial assistance. The “Last Mile” scholarships, funded by AT&T and Merrill Lynch, provide smaller gifts for students, while the Starfish Initiative matches one donor to one student to fill much bigger gaps, sometimes $10,000 – $20,000 per student who falls short.

Officially named the President’s Safety Net Scholarship, the Starfish Initiative is based on the well-known allegory about a little girl who is overwhelmed by the number of dying starfish strewn by a storm onto the beach. The girl starts throwing starfish back into the ocean, one at a time. Told by a passerby that she couldn’t possibly help them all, the girl throws another back and says, “I helped that one.”

Williams is thankful for being one of the starfish thrown back in the water by this creative scholarship initiative:

How did you find out about the Starfish Initiative?

I first found out about this initiative via a newsletter. I remember the article noting Spelman’s expeditious efforts in finding out what loan providers would be caught in the dreary economic forecast, and assessing what that meant for my Spelman sisters and me.

What was your first response when you received the award from the donor?

I remember screaming “Thank You Jesus” in utter gratitude and partial shock. My mother, grandmother, aunts, sister, and everyone else were so happy for me. They know firsthand the struggles that I have overcome, and the financial burden that I carry, most affectionately called “tuition.”

What does receiving the gift mean to you?

Receiving this gift means one more year here within these sacred gates. It means one more sister that I can help/love/grow with and learn from; it means one more year that I can be cultivated and pushed to exceed my potential. It means that I am one step closer to taking a degree home and using it to effect positive change on the neighborhood I grew up in.

What are your plans after you graduate?

I plan to attend graduate school and pursue a master’s degree (and then a Ph.D.) in public health or school psychology. While pursuing my postgraduate degrees, I plan to work actively in my community as an advocate for children and to stop violence against women and their families.

Giving to Spelman

Charitable gifts play a critical role in helping to sustain the excellence of the Spelman educational experience, fund the College's priorities and ensure that the institution attracts and educates leaders who will change the world.

The Annual Fund

Unrestricted gifts to the Annual Fund provide the resources necessary to support the College's areas of greatest need and potential each year. Annual Fund support bolsters the College's operating budget, provides scholarships, enhances academic and student programs, and supports our talented faculty.

Every Woman...Every Year!

Alumnae gifts are extremely important to Spelman College. Alumnae participation reflects the number of alumnae who give – not how much alumnae give. Alumnae support is a factor used in determining national rankings and impacts funding consideration from corporations, foundations and government entities. When gifts are renewed annually, Spelman can better plan knowing critical resources are in place to aid in the education and empowerment of the next generation of Spelman women.

Ways to Give

There are various ways to make a gift to Spelman College, including by mail, phone, online and via electronic funds transfer and recurring credit card payments.

For more information, visit www.spelman.edu/giving and click on Giving to Spelman, or contact the Office of Development at (866) 512-1690.

A Message from the Board Chair

Greetings:

Thank you for joining Spelman College in our commitment to students who make a choice to change the world. Your contributions are vital to keeping the institution strong and growing.

We want you to know that all gifts, regardless of size, are valuable and appreciated. In Fiscal Year 2008, charitable gifts totaled nearly $14 million, which represents votes of confidence from more than 5,000 donors in Spelman and our fine students. The impact of your support is both impressive and inspiring.

Every gift contributes to the lifeblood of Spelman College, enabling us to attract and retain the most gifted students, recruit the best faculty, and improve our infrastructure. For example our new environmentally friendly residence hall is on track to be certified under the Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design Green Building Rating System, making our “green” dorm the first of its kind at a historically Black college or university.

Because of your support, Spelman is widely recognized as a leading producer of Black women leaders. One-third of Spelman students graduate in the math and sciences, making the College one of the nation’s top producers of Black female medical students and doctoral candidates in science, technology, engineering and mathematics.

When our foundation is strong, our future is brightened by exciting possibilities. Through a $17 million anonymous gift, the newly created Gordon-Zeto Endowed Fund for International Initiatives will infuse the curriculum, campus environment, and extracurricular offerings with global components. The endowment will be used to bring students from Africa to study and graduate from Spelman, support study-abroad opportunities for Spelman students and faculty, and provide senior leadership for the College’s international programs.

Thanks to the names listed on the following pages, we are weaving our proud history and traditions with exciting progress and a bright future.

Yours in Supporting Spelman,

THE 1881 SOCIETY

The Spelman College 1881 Society recognizes alumnae and other individuals who contribute $100 or more to the College. It is composed of various gift societies and clubs based on giving levels in three categories: Lifetime societies recognize cumulative giving in the amount of $100,000 or more. Annual societies and clubs recognize giving within the fiscal year (June 30-July 1). The Guardian Society recognizes donors who have made provisions for planned gifts. This year, in an effort to conserve our precious natural resources, members of our 1881 Society Century Club, Second Century Club, and Founders Club are listed and recognized in the constituent sections of the Donor Honor Roll.
