UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA
PERELMAN SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
Early Assurance Program (PASS-HBCU Program)

Penn Access Summer Scholars (PASS) at Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, partnered with Spelman College, is a highly selective program. This program is designed for students underrepresented in medicine. Students are paired with research mentors for 8 weeks during their sophomore and junior summers. The outcome of this program is to prepare students to matriculate in medical school. For students interested in matriculating at the Perelman School of Medicine, there is a linkage program.

PROGRAM INFORMATION

If selected, students will participate in two summer research programs following the sophomore and junior year. Each student will receive a $4000.00 stipend for their summer program participation and a $35,000/year tuition scholarship.
